Services Team

In addition to supporting all the major shipyards in the United Kingdom, Seaking Electrical Ltd carries out turnkey projects for the commercial, military and offshore markets. Our service team can be called upon to respond to breakdown or refit situations worldwide.

The Seaking vision is to be 1st in class. That means that we as a company shall maintain its investment in our people, through continuous input into training programmes. We are continuing to add to our service team. This means that we are increasing our level of commitment to specialist training such as power generation, radar, fire detection and telephone communications systems etc.

Our junior managers receive ongoing training in project management, administration, communications, leadership, quality assurance, health safety & environmental issues. One of our major drivers is specifically project driven to ensure that we comply with all Statutory Health and Safety issues in regard to our personnel.
